

PRIVACY NOTICE

FACTS	WHAT DOES REGINALD A. RHODES, P.C. AND ALABAMA CENTER FOR ELDER LAW, LLC DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?
WHY?	Business Advisers choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives clients the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.
WHAT?	The types of personal information we collect, and share depend on the product or service you have with our law office. This information can include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Information you provide in the subscription documents and other forms (including name, address, social security number, date of birth, income and other financial- related information); and • Data about your transactions with us (such as the types of legal matters or investments you have made and your account status).
HOW?	All legal and financial companies need to share clients' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their clients' personal information; the reasons Reginald A. Rhodes, P.C. and Alabama Center for Elder Law, LLC, chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.
Reasons we can share your personal information
For our everyday business purposes- to process your matter and transactions, maintain your accounts (for example we may share with our third-party service providers that perform services on our behalf or on your behalf, such as accountants, attorneys, consultants, clearing and custodial firms, and technology companies, respond to court orders and legal investigations, or report to credit bureaus. We do not sell or share your personal information with any organization not covered in our everyday business purposes
How do we protect your information?
To safeguard your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we maintain physical, procedural and electronic safeguards. These include computer safeguards such as passwords, secured files and buildings. Our employees are advised about Reginald A. Rhodes, P.C. and Alabama Center for Elder Law, LLC need to respect the confidentiality of each client's non-public personal information. We train our employees on their responsibilities. We require third parties that assist in providing our services to you to protect the personal information they receive. This includes contractual language in our third-party agreements.
Other important information:
We will send you notice of our Privacy Policy annually for as long as you maintain an ongoing relationship with us. Periodically we may revise our Privacy Policy and will provide you with a revised policy if the changes materially alter the previous Privacy Policy. We will not, however, revise our Privacy Policy to permit the sharing of non-public personal information other than as described in this notice unless we first notify you and provide you with an opportunity to prevent the information sharing.	